SPECIAL NEWS RELEASE

The Game Commission at its regular July meeting set the game and fur seasons and bag limits for the 1956 hunting license year which begins September 1, ends August 31, 1957. Overall, the seasons are the most liberal in many, many years.

These changes and departures can be noted by comparing the 1956 seasons with those of 1955:

The season for hunting squirrels (gray, black and fox), ruffed grouse and wild turkeys has been extended from the usual four weeks to five weeks this year. It begins October 20. The season on ring-necked pheasants, cottontail rabbits and bobwhite quail opens October 27. The season on all species of native small game named in this paragraph ends November 24. The daily and seasonal bags are the same as in 1955.

Squirrels are abundant and the extra week of hunting will allow additional sport without hurting the population. Field studies indicate grouse and wild turkeys can withstand a longer season, thus the extension of time this year for the taking of these birds. The turkey season will be recognized as the most liberal since the come-back of this great bird.

The Commission advanced the bow and arrow antlered deer season to open October 1, and set the end of that special season at October 19. This three-week season will be the longest enjoyed yet in this state by archers.

The mink and muskrat seasons were changed so as to run concurrently, December 1, 1956, to January 15, 1957, which is also a departure from long standing procedure.

The breakdown of the seasons on native game species and fur animals follows.

SMALL GAME

The opening hour for small game and other wild birds and animals on October 27 will be 9 a.m. The other opening days, and otherwise during the season for upland and big game, the shooting hours daily are from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., excepting from July 1 to September 30 inclusive, 6 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., and the hours for the October archers' deer season, which are 6 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. (All shooting hours are based on Eastern Standard Time. The above shooting hours do not apply to migratory game.)

The season for ruffed grouse will be October 20 to November 24, inclusive. The daily limit is 2, the season limit, 8. Wild turkeys: October 20-November 24. Daily and season limit, 1. Squirrels (gray, black and fox combined), October 20-November 24. Limits, 6 and 24.

Bobwhite quail may be taken, 4 a day and 12 the season, October 27 to November 24, inclusive. Ring-necked pheasants, males only, October 27-November 24, with limits of 2 and 8. Cottontail rabbits, October 27, November 24 - 4 and 20. Hares (snowshoe rabbits), December 29, 1956, to January 5, 1957 - 2 and 6.

FIREMEN'S BENEFIT. These young clowns are advertising Frames Greater Shows, a carnival being sponsored by the Glade Township Volunteer Fire Dept. The carnival is showing on Conewango ave., ext., through Saturday of this week.

The clowns, who will be on hand for the kiddies' performance Saturday afternoon, (l. to r.) are Robert Hansen, Richard Hansen, John DiPierro, Alan Fox and George Sampson.

Red squirrels may be taken in unlimited numbers throughout the year except October 1 to 19, inclusive.

Raccoons, woodchucks (ground-hogs) and grackles remain on the unprotected list and may be taken in unlimited numbers for the entire 1956 license year.

Regulations covering possession and transportation limits of legally killed small game are the same as last year. They allow not more than the daily limit for the first day nor more than an accumulated total for each succeeding day of the open season for each species. But small game shall not be in excess of the season limit, regardless where held, stored or found in possession.

BIG GAME

(Shooting hours: 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. all days of deer and bear seasons, excepting the archers' October deer season given below.)

Antlered Deer:

From December 3 to 15, inclusive, a two-week "buck" season, state-wide, for animals of the following description: male deer with 2 or more points to one antler; provided, a male deer with antlers 3 or more inches long without points, measured from the top of the skull as the deer is in life, shall again be considered legal.

Bears:

The season on bears will be for one week this year, November 26 to December 1, inclusive. Only bears over one year old are legal game. An individual hunter may take one bear in the 1956 season. A hunting party of 3 or more persons may take 2 bears in one day or during the entire season.

October 1 to 19 inclusive, will be for male deer only as described in the antlered deer season above. In addition to the regular hunting license every bow hunter, without exception, must procure a special archery license costing $2.00 from the Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, in order to hunt during the special bow season. Shooting hours during the special bow and arrow season for deer shall be from 6 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., E.S.T., all days of the season.

No Antlerless Deer Season:

For the following reasons the Game Commission did not declare an antlerless deer season this year: With the exception of some counties in the northcentral and northwest parts of the state the antlerless deer season of 1955, along with winter kill and accidental deer kills, have somewhat alleviated the over-all deer problem temporarily.

The Commission would like to further study the results of the effects of last year's antlerless deer season and the winter kill before authorizing another antlerless season.

The Commission also believes that if the deer herd increases as it is likely to do this year the logical approach then would be to have an antlerless deer season in 1957, with sufficient antlerless deer licenses available for everyone who wants to hunt these animals. Of course, even with the contemplated increase in antlerless deer licenses in 1957 such licenses would be assigned to those counties in numbers in relation to the number of deer that should be harvested.

FURBEARERS

The mink and muskrat season will run concurrently, December 1, 1956 to January 15, 1957. These furbearers may be taken in unlimited numbers.

Skunks and opossums remain unprotected and may be taken in unlimited numbers.

Beavers may be trapped, statewide, February 14 to March 11, 1957. The daily limit is 4, the season limit is 4.

All hunting and trapping dates given above are inclusive, except that the last day of each trapping season terminates at noon.

Hunters and trappers are urged to study the information on their 1956 hunting licenses, also to consult the leaflet issued with each license for additional details.

Migratory Waterfowl

Migratory waterfowl seasons will be announced later, after being established by the federal government.

Close Seasons

There will be no open season on: Hungarian partridges, hen pheasants, sharp-tailed grouse, cub bears, elk, antlerless deer, bucks with antlers less than three inches long, and otters.

Sr. Chamber Concerned Over Route 6 Talk

It is very likely that the Chamber of Commerce board of directors will be asked to consider a resolution urging that Route 6 remain as part of the Federal Interstate System. The board will meet in a special session at 4:00 p. m. Friday at the Chamber offices to hear the details of the current controversy from members of the highway transportation committee that attended a meeting in Bradford Monday to discuss the subject.

Borough and county officials will be invited to the Friday meeting to help air the matter.

On Monday delegates from Bradford, Kane, Smethport and Warren discussed a plan of action for the battle to save Route 6, the argument over which arose last week when Secretary of Highways for Pennsylvania John Lawler stated the route should not be on the Interstate System. He recommended it be downgraded in favor of a new short way through central Pennsylvania between Sharon and Stroudsburg, stating that towns along Route 6 did not want to be by-passed.

In 1944 Route 6 across northern Pennsylvania was designated to be part of the Interstate System of roads and was to be a two lane limited access highway. Under the Interstate System the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of building the road and the state pays 10 per cent.

A limited or controlled access road is described as one where entrances and exits can be made only at specific points and no service establishments are allowed along the right of ways. Motorists must leave the road to obtain service facilities and most cities would be by-passed on Route 6.

Officials in some cities along Route 6 are becoming overheated by Mr. Lawler's remarks and actions for they believe that by-passes are not injurious to a community's business and that a limited access road within a few miles of any town will increase the traffic on the road. They further believe the traveler will enter nearby communities for service and lodging.

It has been pointed out that the interstate highways are built to specifications for use in the year 1975 and will be the most modern possible, an important thing to the northern tier where truck transportation is largely relied on. There is also a feeling that industrial development would be hindered if the route was eliminated from the federal system, for statistics show that industry tends to locate in close proximity to the limited access roads.

VANDALISM. Someone's mischievous act of cutting the dock loose at Boy Scout Camp Olmsted Sunday night could have easily resulted in the loss of the dock, three row boats and two canoes.

Fortunately the dock, broken into two pieces, was located near Kinzua where the strong river current had carried it. The boats were also recovered along the banks of the river.

A ROUND-UP of several suspects following a burglary of $11 at the Cozy Corner last Thursday has cleared up a series of thefts in the area for borough police, state police and the sheriff's department.

As a result of the investigation staged by authorities, Robert L. Smith, 27, R. D., Warren, and several juveniles were picked up and will now appear in court.

In questioning Smith, borough police learned that he was involved in the $150 robbery of the Carlson's Oldsmobile garage three years ago and also figured with a younger gang in the Cozy Corner break-in.

Authorities are now in the process of making the final cleanup of the gang, which is clearing up numerous gasoline thefts in the area.

Television and Radio

By John Crosby

Let's Keep Trying

Among my more hopeless aspirations is to see a really good original musical comedy on television. I don't mean "My Fair Lady" or "The King and I." That would be asking a bit too much. But just an hour or an hour and a half of pretty good songs, a story line that isn't too far removed from the realm of probability, and -- I don't think this is an excessive demand -- a laugh or two here and there.

Nobody's managed it yet. The latest attempt was a Sunday spectacular on NBC-TV called "The Bachelor," which had Hal March surrounded by a bevy of babes which included Carol Haney, Julie Wilson, Jayne Mansfield and Georgette Johnson. The story by Arnie Rosen and Coleman Jacoby was about a bachelor (Mr. March) who is making alternate passes at three quite different girls -- Miss Wilson is a steel-edged career girl, Miss Johnson is a hard-drinking society doll, and Miss Mansfield, who is more or less making a career out of caricaturing Marilyn Monroe. It takes him roughly an hour and fifteen minutes to decide none of these girls is quite right for him and to settle his affections on his secretary (Miss Haney) who, by that time, had been spoken for.

While this may have been the best musical original to come along on television so far, which isn't saying much, it wasn't as good as it ought to be, and I think I know why. Scene by scene -- if you don't mind a clinically detailed discussion -- it simply wasn't good enough; it had the cold air of a first draft about it and I felt that just a little more hard work on the part of the authors would have immeasurably improved things.

The play is set on Madison Avenue among the advertising fraternity and heaven knows there's nothing riper for comedy than that. However, the denizens of ad alley talk a jargon -- "we're on the one yard line and we can't afford to fumble" -- that is distinctly out of date if my spies in that area are at all to be trusted. (When last heard from, they reported that the football field had long since given way to the analyst's couch, a metaphorical progression that was absolutely inevitable.)

There's a dumb blonde scene in which Miss Mansfield coiled herself around a sofa as if she were trying out for a calendar ad. It wasn't wildly hilarious either. It's just possible that the dumb blonde bit has been so thoroughly explored by other writers that it no longer holds any surprises for us.

There was a dream sequence which went on longer than was necessary in which Mr. March tried to visualize marriage with each of his three girl friends and was appalled by all the possibilities. The trouble with each of these bits is that they were so entirely predictable you could have written them yourself. This means that the audience was way out ahead of the writers and that must be avoided at all cost.

The songs were contributed by Steve Allen and Irvin Drake. They were mostly integrated right into the script, Mr. March singing his instructions over the telephone, the girls all singing their peculiarities and frustrations in rather routine doggerel. ("I'm a vulture. I must have culture.") Music is always going to be a problem or these things because there are very few songs -- and by no means the best ones -- that catch on the first time around.

Despite all these crotchety remarks, "The Bachelor" had its moments of easy-going charm and it's just a pity there wasn't a general tightening. Hal March, who is normally found handing out wads of dough on "The $64,000 Question," is a fairly poised actor and he handled a role that just missed fatuity by an inch or so, adroitly. Carol Haney is not only a very winning comedienne, but an extremely talented one and this part didn't even begin to exploit her abilities. Miss Mansfield, I think, better enlarge her repertoire to include maybe dumb brunettes. At present her gamut is a little narrow.

I still harbor a perhaps foolish hope that television may unearth a

BUYERS' CORNER

HOW'S BUSINESS?

The mid-summer plummet is apt to be the case if you still are open for business in the Warren area while plants and plant personnel take vacations. However, up to June, the Pennsylvania State University survey indicated we were doing fairly well.

Building operations in Warren during May totaled $207,800, which is over two hundred per cent better than April and 140 per cent higher than May of 1955. We also are over one hundred per cent better than in the first five months of 1955.

Industrial power sales are up 11 per cent over the corresponding five months, and postal receipts are up six per cent. Telephones in service are three per cent more than in May of 1955.

Cars and trucks sold in Warren during May totaled 251. This is an 85 per cent increase over April, 47 per cent increase over May of 1955, and the five month sale is 17 per cent higher than 1955.

EMPLOYMENT

In the past two years employment in Warren area plants has increased 800, about 60 per cent of whom are men. The present unemployment is 204 as compared with 222 two months ago and 418 a year ago. This will continue to be good if the steel strike is terminated this summer.

A NEWSPAPER FIRST

Pennsylvania subscribers have made possible the first newspaper trade association office building in the nation. The Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers association will dedicate its new $150,000 home in Harrisburg, Friday afternoon, when there will be an open house. Familiar to Warren will be the architect, Lawrie and Green, whose Ritchie Lawrie will present the keys.

ANOTHER DAILY

The offset process which is used to publish this paper is becoming so widely used that even the standard printing trade publications are devoting at least half their pages to the method. One leading publication prints half its pages letter press and the other half offset. A customer can compare the quality simply by thumbing through the magazine.

The method now is entering the publication field very rapidly. Another daily is in the process of switching to the offset method. It is building a new building and will use offset to bring out its daily pages.

New machines are in the laboratories that will revolutionize even the modern ones found in present progressive plants. One company is making a composing machine that will set fifteen lines a minute and they will be in either negative or positive form when they come off the machine. Not only that but the machine will set an entire ad and photograph it on one large strip of negative, ready to go, or ready for stripping in art work.

The fact that this method is being perfected so rapidly should be observed by many young people who are considering their future vocations. Too few men are learning how to typewrite. Before a modern composing machine can be learned the operator must be an excellent typist. Knowing that much he then can learn the machine. Even in Warren, operators of such machines should earn exceptional money when they are perfected.

They also should learn a few photographic fundamentals. A man who is a fast, accurate typist, and knows a bit about photography will be your highly paid printer of tomorrow.

Commercial departments in our schools are not giving enough attention to the new methods. Such printing is entering into the picture where routine office work is done in larger plants. The mimeograph method is being replaced with the better quality of small offset duplicating machines. Fundamental typing and art training to fit this kind of office work should be added to our commercial department courses.

We have had people ask us if the quality of our paper stock is the reason our pictures are better than many letterpress publications. The paper helps, but the pictures would be better even if printed on newsprint. We have done it in our smaller publications and know.

One of these days we hope to have an open house so that those who are interested can see how modern a plant we own. Many of our machines were the first models sold. We have done much experimenting and we are certain that there are readers who would find the story interesting.

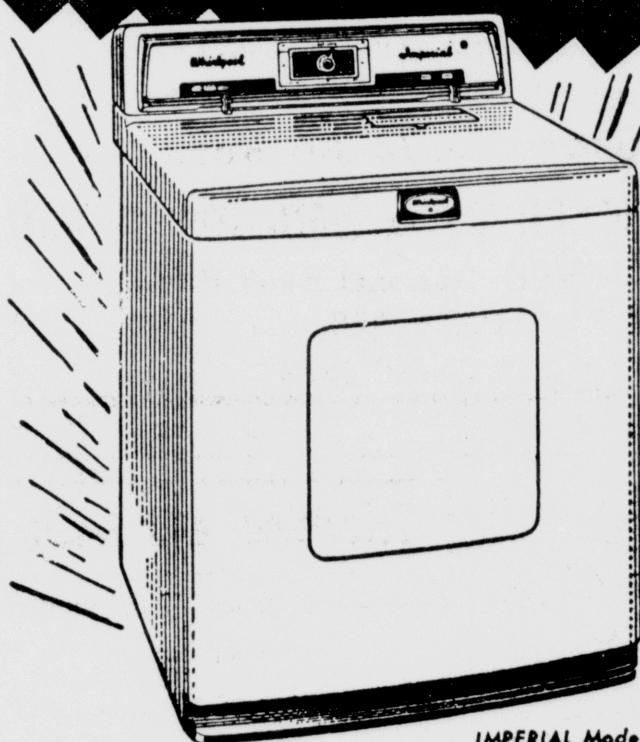

But we are mentioning it here in hopes that young men will see the future in this trade and prepare accordingly. And the young ladies also can do most of this work which is light and clean. They also can prepare their typing skill to fit the new direct image plates and duplicating forms that may be theirs to use in modern offices where they will be employed.

This is the trend and our schools should act accordingly.

CONELRAD

Friday your Warren radio will switch to 1240 on your dial for a few minutes when an alert will be tried. This will make it a ConeLRad station. All stations who have volunteered to be ConeLRads will be on 640 or 1240 during emergencies.

No geographical information will be given and the broadcasting will be interrupted every thirty seconds. In a real emergency these stations would provide you with vital information. All stations would be on the same kilocycles, thus making it difficult for enemy planes to use the signal for guidance.

Only AM stations are used. All FM stations and those not authorized must go off the air. Friday's test will be the first nation-wide effort to see how the system works. It will last from 3:10 to 3:25.

BIG MONEY

The highest price ever paid for a radio station may be that talked about for the sale which may have been completed in Chicago by the time this sees print. The independent station WIND is going for about six million. It grosses over three million a year.

ABC CLIMBS

ABC is breathing down the antennae of NBC and CBS. It increased its income by 77 percent from January through May over last year. At that rate it won't be far behind its TV competitors next year. However, they also went up 13 per cent.

ABC did about $32 million worth, CBS collected over $88 million, and NBC, over $75 million, the first five months.

WYATT EARP again will go through his gunfight at the O.K. Corral. The true story will be presented You Were There this Sunday.

TREASURER'S SALE OF SEALED LANDS
FOR TAXES FOR THE YEAR OF 1954

In compliance with and by virtue of the authority vested in me, the several acts of assembly, and specifically by the act approved June 20, 1939, P. L. 498 and other amendatory acts, authorizing and empowering the county treasurer to sell at public sale all sealed lands upon which taxes levied by authority of any county, borough, town, township, school district and poor district are delinquent and remain unpaid and fixing penalties, etc., I will sell at public sale the following properties as hereinafter set forth.

The purpose of said sale is to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes, penalties, interest and costs thereon as the taxes are returned for the year 1954. Said sale will be held in Court Room 2 at the Court House in the Borough of Warren, Warren County, Pennsylvania on Monday, August 6, 1956 at 10 o'clock A. M. EDST.

Terms of Sale: As soon as property is struck down, payment of the amount of purchase money, or such part thereof as is necessary to pay all taxes, penalties, interest and costs in such case, will be required from the purchaser. In event said amount is not paid forthwith after the property is struck down the sale will be void and the property immediately offered for sale again by the Treasurer. No bid will be accepted for less than taxes, penalty, interests and costs.

If a bid is in excess of said amount the purchaser will be required to make and execute to said Treasurer for use of the persons entitled a bond for the surplus money that may remain after satisfying and paying all the taxes and costs as aforesaid.

To all persons, owners or reputed owners of property, terra tenants or any claiming an interest in the following described lots or tracts of land: You are hereby notified that your property situated in the borough or township as hereinafter described has been returned for non-payment of taxes for the year designated and unless such taxes and costs are paid on or before Monday, the 6th day of August, 1956, at ten o'clock A. M. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, of said day, the said premises will be sold as above set forth.

IKE IS NOT USING MIGHT

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON -- When President Eisenhower reached into Congress and picked Rep. Charles W. Halleck of Indiana, second ranking Republican leader in the House of Representatives, to nominate him for a second term at the San Francisco convention next month, he was making a gesture denoting the friendship that has developed between the two.

But this choice was recognized as having also a political purpose of which National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, himself a former member of Congress, who announced it after a conference with the President at Gettysburg, would be fully aware.

It is in the form of a dramatic hand-clasp, for the nationwide television audience, between the Republican party in Congress and the President, on the eve of another campaign. A charitable comment is that such is certainly needed. This act of conciliation emphasizes the weakness that it presumably is supposed to conceal. That is the repeated failure of a majority of Republican members of House and Senate to follow their President.

So graphically is that being illustrated right down toward the wire of President Eisenhower's first four years in the White House -- as it was from the very beginning -- that Democrats now are seizing this incongruity as a major issue both in this year's Presidential and Congressional election campaigns.

As for the President, the tack they are taking is that it exhibits a lack of leadership on his part. As for Congress, the Democratic line is that it has been Democrats who have saved the President on numerous issues, both foreign and domestic, and in both the Republican 83rd and the Democratic 84th Congresses, which is the fact shown by the record. This, they say, demolishes any argument that election of a Republican Congress would help the President.

Just the day before Chairman Hall announced the selection of Charlie Halleck as the President's nominator, Republicans had cast more votes against the President's foreign aid bill in the House than had Democrats and had cast far fewer for it than had Democrats.

Only a few days before, a majority of Republicans had voted against the school construction bill.

Including Charles W. Halleck! His explanation for his vote was that the bill did not contain the Administration's formula for allocating Federal funds to the states. But, for a seasoned legislator who knows that you can never get everything you want and that there would be other opportunities, in the Senate and in conference, to work out changes, this hardly seemed sufficient excuse to vote to kill the bill outright. It was noted that Midwest Republicans contributed the bulk of their party's votes against the bill, joining with Southern Democrats in the familiar coalition in which Charlie Halleck has played a leading role for many years.

Governor Averell Harriman, who charged the President with a lack of leadership in his speech at the National Press Club here last week, said that Mr. Eisenhower had not used the vast powers inherent in the Presidency to get what he wanted. Here, indeed, the New York candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination struck a vulnerable point, which is spoken of often at the Capitol. There surprise is expressed that the President neglected, both in the foreign aid bill and the school construction bill, to call their support right down the line. The potentials open to him are tremendous, for no President ever had his party and its candidates for office, including Congress, so dependent upon him. All intend to run on his coat-tails. Public statements, issued too late, cannot do the job.

Apparently the President still keeps his sharp words about Republican defectors in Congress to himself or within his own White House and Cabinet circle, as he did during his worries with the Republican 83rd Congress. Then he complained often and bitterly at Cabinet meetings, according to Robert J. Donovan in his book, "Eisenhower -- The Inside Story."

To his Cabinet on May 8, 1953, according to Donovan, he said "he was tired of having the Administration 'kicked in the shins' and otherwise set upon by Congressmen who should be supporting it."

And, on May 25, at another Cabinet meeting:

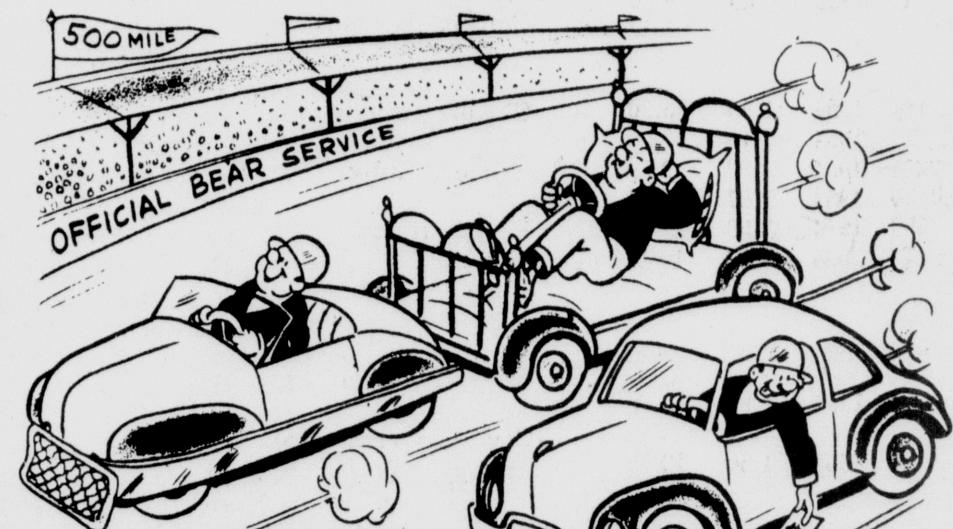

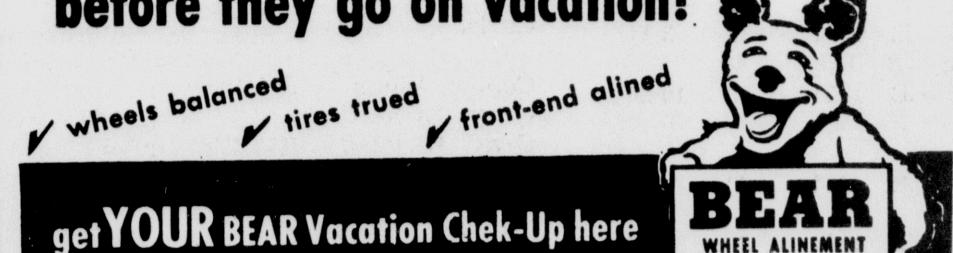

"When the President demanded, would it be possible to get a piece of legislation worked out on which the Republicans could go before the electorate united instead of always having someone 'on our side' in disagreement? And then, finally, in desperation:

"He began asking his most intimate associates whether he did not have to start thinking about a new party."

The same trouble dogs the Pres-

SUCCESSFUL TOURNAMENT

The Paul Porter Day tournament staged by the Conewango Valley Country Club for its injured professional was a very successful event, Sunday, netting better than a thousand dollars for the popular young swing artist. Most of the winning professionals turned back all or part of their prize money.

Lew Worsham led a field of twenty pros and fifty amateurs with a 67, five under par, and the answer was given to the often put question, "What would happen if a few big name pros played our course competitively?"

The 67 was not a new record but it was mighty fine golf. Tim Creal, many times the club's champion, has had several 67's, and Toby Lyons is credited with making it around in 64.

Lionel Hebert of Erie and Ken Yount of Niagara Falls shaved a stroke off par for a 71. At 72 were Joe Henne, Titusville power hitter who led the amateurs, J. Pasnick, Buffalo pro, and Pete Lipchik, St. Marys teacher.

At 73 were Frank Commissio, Rochester, Toby Lyons, Jamestown, and Al Nagell, Buffalo, all pros, and Ben Bishop, Jamestown amateur.

At 74, Mike Parco, Buffalo pro, Sam Urzetta, now a pro out of Rochester, and Jack Vander Molen, Jamestown amateur.

The 75 mark was hit by several amateurs including Skip Morine and Tim Creal of Warren. Larry Hoffmann, former western Pennsylvania junior champ, and now of Franklin, and E. Pasnick, of Buffalo, were the others.

Sam Jackins, Buffalo pro, was a 76. He fired a 2 on number two hole the first time around, and then used 8 the second time.

In at 78 were many amateurs, John Carter, of Warren, John Haskell and Dick Von Tackey, of Titusville, and Jerry Lynch, of Chautauqua.

The crowd was just right for watching the clinic and to follow the players. The weather was good, the birdies came often, and a big day of golf was enjoyed by participants, spectators, and those who sweated it out.

MORE GOLF

Les Sheldon is talking up a golf tournament for his Kinzua course

the latter part of August. He might put up a trophy for the county open champ, and have prizes for both scratch and handicap divisions.

* Tim Creal won both ways in the weekly men's tournament at the C.V.C.C. He fired a gross 36 for the low medal and took low handicap honors with his net 34. Tied at net 35 were Homer Culbertson and Al Loranger. Tom Atwell was third with 36.

* Titusville drubbed Warren's team, Saturday, 37 to 11. But it will be different July 28. Titusville comes to Warren for the return match.

* Today there are low gross and low medal with handicap tournaments and a hole in one contest. Sunday there is a tournament at Kane in which some of the boys may play.

AUTO RACES SUNDAY

Stock car races, featuring late models, will be held at the Skyline Speedway near Sugar Grove at 8:30 Sunday evening. The night's action will be completed by a 50-lap main event.

WINNER AT SKYLINE

Bradford's Gus Nelson raced his 1956 Oldsmobile to victory in the 100-lap feature event at Skyline Speedway Sunday night. An estimated 3500 fans witnessed the feat. Finishing behind Nelson in the feature were Don Bailey, Brockway; Joe Sauner, Jamestown, N. Y.; Jim Patrick, Conneaut, Ohio; and Emory Mahan, Warren.

The winner's trophy was presented by Miss Shirley Kinney, Corry, while Speed Pratt, race director, awarded a trophy to John McGinley for his fastest qualifying time of 19.95 seconds.

IN HOLIDAY

Facts about our national forests, 149 of them, including the Allegheny National forest, will be discussed in an article which will be seen in the August issue of Holiday. It is by Bernard DeVoto, who says the U. S. Forest Service, established in 1905, is the official guardian of these 181,000,000 acres. Rangers who do the job some times figure they must be a jack of 465 trades.

The article is illustrated by eight pages of color and black and white photographs, and emphasizes that the biggest enemies of this important asset is man, who, if he realized how much this forestland meant to him, would do much to help preserve it.

*** WHERE ARE THE HOOPS?

There is nothing left for the imagination these days. We have talked before about the many mediums of locomotion we invented in those days when toys were not as plentiful. The go-devil was one of our subjects, and it was a speed-ball on snow. We had all kinds, from the barrel stave variety to the abbreviated ski. We also had one with a thin runner for hard surfaces.

And so it went through the seasons. With the stores selling nothing but standard carts, tricycles, and bicycles, with a pedal pushing miniature car for those who were satisfied with such progress, the young man of yesterday had to use his wits, the hammer, and the nails.

Which causes us to wonder what happened to the hoop? This was one phase through which we had to work each summer, spring, or fall.

There were many varieties, or as many as young minds can dream up. And that takes in quite a range. They started with the ordinary baby carriage wheel which was whacked along with a stick, and steered with the same, to some mighty fancy numbers that were never struck. Instead they were moved and controlled with a variety of instruments.

The hoops, of course, ranged from small cart wheels to bicycle rims. We also have used iron barrel rims, and we owned a few prize hoops that were taller than we. These could be the outer remains of a wagon wheel, or a rare velocipede rim, of which we saw none in action, nor did we ever ride one, just in case you have visions of our grey beard flowing across the typewriter.

Our favorite form of hoop locomotion was a smoothly made stick, with a comfortable handle. At right angles to it was placed a spool which turned on a smooth shaft. This spool was placed against the hoop and away you went. You could keep it moving at your own speed, or with a well timed flick send it speeding at a much faster pace. You also steered with the turns of the wrist or fingers.

Hooping was more than the simple idea of pushing a wheel up and down the street. Again the fertile young mind would become quite bored. The sport of hooping was taking it and controlling it to any conceivable spot, and some that might not be so conceivable.

Up and down a pair of steps was routine, as was in and out of doors. Maintaining a hoop at a near still pace, and some times entirely still, while sharp turns were negotiated the turns of the wrist or fingers.

"PERCE STRINGS"

on thin ledges, or obstacles removed, added much to the skill required.

Races, of course, were inevitable, and they usually included a makeshift obstacle course, that might be no more complicated than a trip around the block, with a few rough spots tossed in, such as cement walls (like the one around the Cone-wango Club), muddy street crossings, a lake of water left by a recent rain, and many others.

Hooping was not a sport for softies. It included a day of almost constant running, the skillful manipulation of young fingers, hands, and arms, and the development of much coordination. It may not have been a sport of kings, though we understand that a few of the noblemen did a bit of it in the relative security of the fenced green expanses. But it was a sport for boys who were not flooded with modern gadgets and had to make some fun for themselves.

In those days of imagination the delinquents didn't seem to be quite so prevalent.

MANY FINE PICTURES

If you haven't visited Chautauqua this year to see the special art exhibition that is being shown there you have until Saturday to do so. It is called "One Hundred Years of American Painting", and includes many famous works dating back over a hundred years. Lent by the Albright Art Gallery in Buffalo they include fourteen masterpieces.

Included is Edward Hicks' "The Peaceable Kingdom", which dates back to 1833. There is Winslow Homer's "Croquet Players" done in 1865 when that game was at its height after recently being imported from abroad. A little more modern is "The Coming Storm" by George Inness. And still more modern is "Mid-June", a water color by Charles Burchfield.

There are many others, and if you enjoy painting, or if you appreciate this method of artistic expression here is your opportunity to see a fine collection without too much traveling.

ALSO GOOD MUSIC

While you are visiting Chautauqua Saturday for a peek at those paintings, you also can stay for the evening concert of the symphony orchestra which presents the world premiere of David Holden's "Toccata for Orchestra". This will be the opening number of a program which will include the music of Mozart, and Franck, with Mischa Mischakoff and Nathan Gordon as soloists. Time, 8:30.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

READING INCREASES

Despite television, movies, radio, and many participation activities, the public continues to read. In fact, it is reading more than ever. The proof is easy to find. Newspaper and magazine circulations are growing and the sale of books is greater. In addition we have the records of our libraries. The annual report of the Warren library this week revealed that last year will be topped, and it is notable that non-fiction reading exceeds fiction.

This suggests that more books can be used, and because of this it is discouraging to see no money budgeted for such a purchase in the library report. At the same time we see county commissioners refusing to initiate a county library service that would make many more books available to rural residents. We talk of the bad aspect of comic books, some TV programs, and other attractions, but we do little to provide healthy alternatives in the form of good literature.

The librarian reported that the Warren library is spending no more for books than it was ten years ago. With books costing twice as much she suggests that we must be lagging a bit.

She also said, "We did not end up in the red column this year as we did last year, but it is only because we have not purchased the equipment that we need. We balanced the budget, but we starved doing it."

It is strange that this nation which is so proud of its productive capacity and has a surplus of food, is so willing to starve the mind. With a new children's librarian to promote activity in the Warren public library's children's department the circulation of books in that department alone increased one thousand volumes through the March to June period as compared with last year. The young people will read if they are reached.

***

MONEY NEEDED

The annual report of the librariian also includes the following statements:

"A salary schedule for the Warren Public Library is sorely needed. Salaries are arrived at, not by the qualifications of the employee, but by the state of the budget, which as everyone knows, is never adequate. In order to attract qualified people, so that the service which the community demands can be given, we shall have to pay higher wages."

"Meanwhile, staff members are harder and harder to replace when vacancies arise. Our turnover in staff will certainly get worse before it gets better unless a solution to the salary problem is found."

"Along with the need for a salary schedule goes the need for a revised budget. For example our supply budget has remained the same for ten years. Although our income has increased in the past ten years, this increase has been absorbed by increased book cost, salaries, and general maintenance. The cost of books has doubled in that time."

"In other words, we are getting just about half the number of volumes in 1956 as we did in 1946. Actually, our book stock, if it were based on the 1946 values is just half as large as it was ten years ago. Surely that is indicative of the fact that we must find funds somewhere to operate this library ade-

NOT SO DIFFICULT

This problem of a few dollars for the library is not the big obstacle which a few have so successfully tried to make it. Considering the value of education, and reading is a major portion of that field, the amount spent on our library is insignificant.

The budget is a bit over $30,000. The school district kicked in $11,555 and the council paid $9,000. Endowments, rentals, fines, etc. made up the rest.

A few thousand dollars for salaries, more books, and building repairs should not be difficult to find. In fact, the Warren borough council was very willing to give the library a full mill at a recent meeting and was told that much wasn't needed.

As one member of the Association told the board at the annual meeting, if a well prepared plan for improving the library were prepared, council no doubt would be very cooperative. We agree.

Reading is a basic need. Students in school must have it to augment their studies. Adults should have it all their life to continue their education and to keep informed. It can help us fight everything from wars to juvenile delinquency.

We suspect that the same people who constantly throw road blocks in the way of improving the Warren library are the same ones who influence commissioner thinking. Why we do not know, unless they either are prejudiced against some who advocate progress, or have the cute idea that some funds helpful to Warren could be obtained by channeling state money through the Warren library to provide a county library service. If county residents let the commissioners do that the record suggests they will be making a major error.

The custom of interlocking directorates in Warren and Warren county civic affairs often places a tight throttle on progress, with the policy of economy constantly stifling needed steps. The same ones faced with the task of preparing a budget often must ask themselves for it as members of the contributing agency. Blind conservatism blocks and blinds a few, and the many suffer.

OPEN NEW BUSINESS. Two New York State men today held the official opening of their new electronic and mechanical repair shop, the K and E, at 414-1/2 Pennsylvania ave., W., in the rear of Service Hardware.

The two partners are Leo G.

Eddy, left, of Gowanda, N. Y., and Larry W. Kepler, of Cassadaga, N. Y. Mr. Eddy is a graduate of the Coyne Electrical School in Chicago and the latter graduated from the University of Iowa with a physics major. Both are 20-year veterans in the electrical repair field.

OVER 200 MEMBERS and guests of the Warren high school Class of 1936 held a reunion last Saturday at the Marconi Outing Club. Wendell Lawson was chairman of the event. One of the big highlights for the occasion was a chicken barbecue by Lewis Catering.

AN OVERLOADED ELECTRIC cable was blamed for causing an estimated $15,000 damage to the home of Merle W. Kremer, 471 Prospect st., when it was partially gutted by fire Tuesday evening.

The fire gutted an adjacent garage of the ranch style home, taking with it a 1956 Buick. The remainder of the damage was caused mainly by heat, smoke and water.

Firemen were summoned to the scene at 5:57 p. m., and were called back twice during the night to cover a hole in the garage and take care of smoldering insulation.

At 6:20 the same evening, firemen were called to the home of Andrew J. Paucek, 6 Beaty court, where some meat had burned and caused $500 to the wall and ceiling of the kitchen. Mr. Paucek and his wife had left their home to witness the other fire.

THE EPWORTH METHODIST CHURCH in Warren will be host to this Methodist Youth Caravan August 11 to the 18th. Youth members must be under 24 years of age, and have completed at least two years of college. Caravaners in this picture are Molly Hale, Carol Hunt, Dave Ehalt, Yvonne Yinger, and their advisor, Vera Fredenburg.

NICE CATCH. After fishing in this area for seven years, Elmer Herda, Pittsburgh, came up with one of his finest catches Wednesday. You see him here with the Northern Pike he pulled out of the river while casting at Starbrick. The fish goes seven pounds on the scale and is 32 inches long.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MEMBERS turned out 81 strong to a meeting called by County Commissioner Lewis Crippen which was an effort to end factionalism and chose a nominee for the County

Chairman position who would be supported by all who attended. Four visitors acted as tellers and announced that Chester Walker had 32 votes, Robert Clark 27, Gordon Downey 16, E. H. Beshlin and Wiliam O. Tingwall received 3 each.

By act of the members, the two highest vote getters will be placed in nomination when the state committee calls the official meeting.

HUCK FINN AND BECKY THACHER. Winners of the annual Huck Finn and Becky Thatcher Day held at the Crescent playground Wednesday afternoon were Barbie Check, age 5, of Lacy, and Jimmy Keller, age 3, of Crescent.

The event is sponsored by the Warren playgrounds in cooperation with the Field and Stream club. Kofod studio will present the winning youngsters with a portrait.

Jaycees To Sponsor Jr. Tennis Tourney

The subject of tennis was the center of discussion at the monthly meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce last evening. The organization adopted a Jr. Tennis tournament project to be held here in the next few months with John McGarry as chairman and approved sponsorship of a tennis clinic and exhibition in the near future.

The clinic will feature the Al Jones and company and will be brought to Warren by Benny Scalise in conjunction with the Jaycees. It will be held after the completion of the Beatty courts the latter part of July.

David Levine, Warren borough Civil Defense director, spoke to the members on what the Jaycees can do to aid in the CD program.

NUMBER ONE of the "Huck Finn's" was Mike Madigan. He was caught observing the annual Huck Finn and Becky Thatcher Day activities Wednesday--thinking back several years when he had the honor of being the first.

The POLITICS OF IT

HE SHOULD WRITE ONE

Next Tuesday the Republican party will hold a dinner in the Marconi Outing Club as a testimonial to Jesse G. Smith, recently retired chairman of the organization, and a holder of several political jobs, ranging from sealer of weights and measures to compensation referee. His was a trail of success.

Jesse came into the picture in a major way about the time the Democrats were using F.D.R. coat tails for a registration build-up that made the two parties about even. Aided and abetted by depression problems and a large federal employment in WPA, PWA, CCC, and others, the Democrats became a real political power even in staid Warren county.

Jesse and a few young turks of local vintage started working at the road back and in a very short time the county was swinging strongly Republican. A powerful G.O.P. organization was built up, and the most was made of Democrat patronage mistakes and bickering within its ranks.

Some of the turks fell by the wayside. Others remained in favor and today may be found among those who are named as potential successors to Jesse's post. Instead, Assemblyman Allen M. Gibson has the job, the chief function of which is to make everyone happy and to keep things under control until a young leader pops up whom all will accept.

(We use that word "young" loosely and only in the political sense. No one of Young Republican vintage is apt to be tagged.)

Jesse Smith also included many years on Warren borough council as a part of his political career and we wish we had the "Inside Story" as told by him to publish in these columns. In fact, it might make a good book.

WHAT SAY THE INDEPENDENTS

There is in our American midst a strange breed of citizen who doubts if any party or individual can always be right. Actually, he believes the issue and the man are more important than party loyalty.

No matter what you may think of this person who seems to be allergic to straight ticket levers and narrow party lines, he usually determines the future of your nation by actually thinking at election time. No one does it for him. He does it himself. Unreasonable fellow!

If the election is at all close he decides it. And if it is not too close it is because he and his fellow thinkers went one way en masse. If it isn't close at all, party liners ignore him.

This year we doubt if he can be ignored. For that reason we were interested in the results of a poll which was taken among the readers of Nation. This magazine is so independent that we doubt if its ads would fill one of its twenty pages. Obviously its subscribers must be a bit more liberal than those who lean on United States News and World Report, or on Life, Saturday Evening Post, and such.

They are fifteen to one against Eisenhower running because of his health. They prefer Stevenson among the Democrats at the rate of six to one over Kefauver, and twelve to one over Harriman.

Most interesting are their feelings about Nixon. If another vice presidential candidate were used by Ike they would give him twice as much support against Stevenson. And going to an extreme, if Symington were the Democrat choice, the margin would be reduced to five to three against Ike and a stranger in the place of Nixon.

It comes down to a strong support for Stevenson, a major opposition to Nixon, and great indecision if Nixon and Stevenson are out of the running.
